About The Program

WHEAT's Management Training Program helps individuals who struggle with unemployment and poverty gain marketable skills leading to self-sustaining careers.

The staff and mentors provide support to the participants as they progress through the Program. Mentors are available and assigned for one full year helping the participants address personal issues that may arise over the course of the Program.

Course work enhances on-the-job skills training and empowers participants to learn & use positive life skills along with key management expertise.

The Program offers year-round classes with a new semester beginning every 12 weeks. Classes are held at different times, on different days to accommodate adult schedules. Workshops are held both on & offsite. Individual mentoring is available and highly suggested for added success!
